

The
Food and Land Use
Coalition

---

Solutions exist.

Many types of farming can protect and restore land and forests and reduce carbon emissions, as well as support healthy food production and rural economies. Regenerative agriculture has the potential to offer around 1.2 trillion USD a year in benefits by 2030.

Photo credit: The Yacan Mi rice farm in the Guangdong Province of China uses ducks as a natural fertilizer and pest control. The ducks are free to roam the rice paddy fields until being sold as organic local produce

www.foodandlandusecoalition.org